Full Bio

Dianna Maneer is a storyteller shaped by wilderness seasons, holy interruptions, and the quiet voice of God that kept calling her home long before she knew how to listen. Her journey winds through heartbreak, motherhood, spiritual awakening, and the slow rebuilding of a life that finally aligned with the truth God had been whispering from the beginning: You were never abandoned. You were always being led. As the founder of Her Promised Life, Dianna speaks to women who feel the stir of something rising within them — a remembering, a returning, a call back to the woman God originally designed them to be. Her message is not polished or predictable; it is raw, embodied, and drenched in the Presence. She invites women into a life where God is not distant or compartmentalized, but woven into every breath, every rhythm, every ordinary moment that becomes holy when we touch it with awareness. Today, Dianna lives in Lake Park, Georgia with her husband and children, creating a home that reflects the very message she carries: that heaven is not far away. It is here, now, rising within us. And every woman has a story worth telling — because every story, when surrendered, becomes a doorway back to the Father.
